FOREWORD

In 1977 the Programmes and Law Information Development Section of the Federal Department of Justice undertook to organize a survey of existing Law for the Layperson materials and programmes, with a view of identifying what needed to be done to make federal laws more accessible to the public. Using funds available under the Canada Employment Commission's Summer Job Corps Programme, teams of students, each working under the direction of a law student project leader and a law professor as adviser, gathered information in each of the provinces. The survey was so successful that it was decided to edit the results and publish them as a national directory of public legal information. To fill in some obvious gaps and to bring the survey up to date, the Department of Justice obtained additional funds from the Summer Job Corps Programme in 1978. While some of this information may be outdated, and omissions may have been made, the data contained in this Directory reflects as accurately as possible, the situation as of August, 1978.

The Directory is comprised of thirteen volumes - one for each of the ten provinces, two national volumes (one English, and one French) and an Index volume. It is the Department's intention to update the Directory on a regular basis and to publish replacement volumes from time to time as it appears to be necessary.

Without the effort of many people in each province, the publication of this Directory would not have been possible. The Department of Justice wishes to express its sincere appreciation to all those citizens, groups, associations, institutions and agencies who provided the information for the Directory; to the survey teams who laboured with great enthusiasm and dedication on the task; to the law professors and others who volunteered their time and expertise as advisers; and finally to the project leaders who not only were responsible for directing the survey and reporting the results to the Department, but also for administering the project funds. In Alberta the project leader in 1977 was Brian Mazer and in 1978 was Francis Bendiak. To them must go special thanks.

The Department is pleased to have the co-operation of the Canadian Law Information Council in the final production and distribution of the Directory. This collaboration is appropriate as the Council is a Federal-Provincial body whose objective is to "enhance the quality and increase the availability of information pertaining to the law in Canada for the Benefit of the Canadian Community". Copies of this or other volumes of the Directory may be purchased from:

Canadian Law Information Council
Place de Ville, Tower B, Suite 2010
112 Kent Street
Ottawa, Ontario

Reader comments and criticisms respecting the Directory are invited and should be sent to the Council at the above address.

Ottawa, March 1979

USER'S GUIDE TO THE DIRECTORY

The 1978 Canadian Directory of Public Legal Information - Alberta is one in a series of 12 volumes which comprise a catalogue of public legal information available in Canada. A separate volume has been published for each province, together with a National volume (available both in French and English) which catalogues legal information available from Federal Government Departments, Federal Agencies, National Organizations and federally-oriented commercial publications. In addition to these 12 volumes, there is also a single-volume index which spans the entire 12 volume collection.

This Directory is subdivided into four categories: Government, Public Groups, Private Groups, and Media. Public Organizations are those which derive their existence through statute and/or which receive government direction. Organizations are listed in alphabetical order under the appropriate category in the Table of Contents.

In the body of the Directory itself, organizations are listed together with their address, the name of a contact person and a short description of the functions and programmes of the organization. Following this you will find a descriptive summary of the law-oriented publications and audio-visual material which are available from that particular source.

At the end of this Directory, you will find two subject indexes: a subject index to organizations and a subject index to publications/audio-visual material. If you are looking for the names of organizations active in the subject area of "Women and the Law" for example, look under the appropriate subject heading in the "Organizations Subject Index" and you will find the names of such organizations together with a page number reference. If you are looking for "Women and the Law" publications, look in the "Publications Subject Index" under the appropriate heading. The reference is to the alpha-numeric part of the publication i.e. under the subject heading "Women and the Law" you will find A-113. Then, look up the publication in the body of the Directory; they are listed in numerical order.

FUNCTIONS AND PROGRAMMES:

It is an organization of law students which provides basic legal services for those who cannot afford a lawyer or are not covered by the Legal Aid Society of Alberta. In addition to specific case work, SLS attempts to promote a greater public awareness of the law through school and community guest speaker programmes as well as through legal reform projects.

SLS operates eight specific projects which work to further its objects.

The "Boyle Street" and "Campus" projects assist individuals with case problems having to do with summary criminal code offences, narcotics control and food and drug act offences, and motor vehicle and highway traffic act offences.

The "Corrections" project assists the prison community through individual casework as well as through lectures, legal research in such areas as remand and parole and through work with youthful offenders.

The "Family Law Information" project provides an informational service for problems related to family law.

The "Community Action" project works with community and tenant groups and also handles casework in the landlord/tenant and small claims areas.

The "Legal Reform" project works to bring about changes in the substantive law or to modify its effects through lectures and informational assistance, and through writing and research.

The "Agit-Prop" or educational project prepares and distributes booklets, pamphlets as well as providing resource material and speakers for public education, especially to student groups. A radio spot on legal issues as well as a newspaper column also originate from this project.

The "Women's Rights" project concentrates on public education and legal reform in legal areas concerning women. The project prepares pamphlets for distribution, does public speaking and works with other women's groups throughout Alberta.

All S.L.S. services are provided without charge.

FUNCTIONS AND PROGRAMMES:

The station provides informal education and programming for the general public. CFAC Television has had law-related programming in the past on the following three programmes: Accent on Calgary (interview show), New Horizons (for Senior Citizens) and Police Code (dramas of unsolved crimes). "Law Here" is a half-hour television show proposed for the 1978-1979 season which would have a phone-in, question and answer format.
